DEMON'S DELIGHT

It all started with the mere mention of the phrase "T-Birds Plight is the Demon's Delight." Floats were built, powder puff was practiced, card board was gathered and Dysart's homecoming was on the move.

Spirit Week, of which the Seniors took 1st place leaving the Sophomores in 2nd, the Juniors in 3rd, and the Freshmen in 4th, carried on it's tradition of lunch time activities and amusement with tug-of-war, pyramid building, and volleyball, to name a few.

Thursday night was set off with a blaze at the bonfire. The massive participation of all the classes along with their cardboard piles lit the evening aglow with games, class cheers, and lots of laughter.

Finally, the event that all the students had all been waiting for, the Homecoming Parade! Although it was a long walk, or ride (it depends on who did what) everyone enjoyed the parade, even when the sophomore float fell apart. It was a sight! Mr. Braden said that all went well and the comments from the community were positive. All this was ended by the flame of fire that came from the senior class float as it burned. Thankfully, not the whole float was damaged and with the previous mishap of the sophomore float, they were put together as one. It went into half-time Friday night as the Sophomore/Senior float along with the other class floats showing the Mohave Thunderbirds that the Dysart Demons have Pride.

Halftime also brought fourth the answer to the question, "Who will be king and queen?" We all found out together. Mike Carbajal and Jaque Garcia were crowned the 1983 Homecoming King and Queen by former king and queen Ray Duncan and Monica Baker.

The grand finale of spirit week came after the game when many attended the dance at the "Ritz Hotel", or the gym to everyone else on campus. Thanks to the high-spirited students on campus, the excitement of spirit week lasted a long time after!

FAB FADS AND FLASHY FASHIONS

o needs Bloomingdales and Saks Fifth Avenue when you have art Fashions? There were many designs represented at Dysart, n Gloria Vanderbilt to K-Mart blue light specials. "Dysart students y shop at the best stores," commented Mario Montoya. Various es of music and their video adaptations were represented here, too, n country, to soul, to rock.

our models filed onto the campus stage we reviewed the types of es that exploded onto the Dysart scene. There were various ions displayed, such as cropped pants — originating in the fifties and old favorites like polo shirts, levis, and Nike tennis shoes.

There was also a variation to another old favorite, it went from dying shirts several years ago, to dying jeans! And, back from the sixties, mini-skirts! "What's so great about Dysart is that you can dress
however you want, and people accept you for it," explained Vangie Huerta. Angie Garcia exclaimed, "Dysart fashions are neat, especially when Cindy Kimzey wears them!" "Students at Dysart like you for what you are, not for what you wear," commented Connie Hamill.

Other Snappy styles modeled ranged from cheap watches to expensive sports jackets, and yet again, letterman jackets and sweaters were still the rage among the active models at Dysart. Along with the movies Flashdance and Staying Alive, off-the-shoulder shirts, jazz dancing, and sweat-clothes blazed onto the Dysart scene.

Out with the old and in with the new . . . out with Vans-off-the-Wall, and in with . . . Boat shoes, or Topsiders as they're more commonly called. Or how about jellies—pink, gray, white, green, blue . . . you name it, they had it!

As our models departed from the campus stage of fashion in May, we realized that Dysart was truly "in"!

PEER PASSION/FRIENDS

Have you bugged a friend today? If not, you're missing out! Just think, how could you face all those humongous tests in Math without a friend to come over and pour over the books with you? How could you dare walk into the dance without your friends spurring you on to ask that special someone to dance? Without friends, you wouldn't have anyone to bum a ride to McDonalds from at lunchtime.

Friends, true friends, are there whenever they can be to help you out on problems you don't seem to be able to solve alone. Friends keep all the little confidences and big secrets under lock and key, respecting your trust in them.

Who ever heard of being at a party . . . by yourself? Playing Monopoly is a lot more fun and interesting when it's not just you, the cat, and boo-boo bear. The basketball games are always a little more fun when you have a friend to jump and scream with, or accidentally spill your popcorn on.? These are good times! Time spent with your friends can be cherished long after you've lost contact. So take this advice, go out and bug a friend today.

HOLIDAY ROAD

What's a good way to break the monotony of school? Take a trip down holiday road!

That's just what we had in mind when we celebrated holidays like Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Christmas.

As Halloween came we started getting into the spirit with a best-costume contest. The three categories were: "most beautiful," won by Tiana Johann wearing a belly dancing costume; "most disgusting", won by John Davey dressed like a woman; and "most scariest", won by Carlton Walker dressed as Quasimoto. Key club was also on the scene selling Bat-grams in the shape of a bat with candy attached.

When Thanksgiving rolled around we were more into the spirit. Student Council had a Turkey-of-the-month contest which Shannon Merrill and Jason Burrell so greatly deserved. Mr. Braden's History Workshop class had a Thanksgiving dinner. Key Club was once again on the scene selling Turkey-grams in the shape of a turkey.

By the time Christmas came everyone was into the spirit. Student Council had a party to decorate the school, putting trees up in various rooms, and streaming icicles around the trees on campus. They also had a Scrooge-of-the-month contest that Benji Carrasco and Leti Acosta won. Something that has been pretty much of an annual affair around school is the door decorating contest held every Christmas. This years theme was "A Jungle Book Christmas." Decorating Ms. Della-Calce's first place door was Andy Chavez and Ruben Hernandez, and decorating Mr. Braden's second place door was Ernesto Alvarez and Rachel Lopez. Again around campus selling Candy-grams (a message with a candy cane attached) were Key Club members.

During the Christmas assembly Pom and Cheer both performed special routines, and choir sang a selection of songs. Student Council gave Christmas gifts to various teachers. But the best part of Christmas was the two weeks we didn't have school.

one) "Oh look, I got crumpled up paper for Christmas!" exclaims Linda Ellis. two) Would you take the picture, I think my mouth is frozen! three) Mateo Alejandre grins as he shows his most prized possession, a doggy bowl. four) An assortment of -grams sent by Key Club. five) Jason Burrell won the "Turkey-of-the-Month" contest! six) Dysart's real Cabbage Patch dolls. seven) Mr. Braden's second place winner of the door decorating contest. eight) Andy and Ruben modestly point to their artwork.

Linda Thompson

one) Tom Nadel received several honors in speech. two) Jeff Davey, Jana Lalliss, and John Davey received regional choir honors. three) Ted Maynard received FFA honors. four) Connie Gaitan received an award of excellence in Home Economics. five) Outstanding art students: Moises Hernandez, Robert Ramirez, Linda Thompson, and Martha Pedroza. six) John Davey and Hector Celaya received band honors. seven) Connie Hamill received The Scholastic Journalism Award for her work on the yearbook.

DYSART STUDENTS ATTAIN HONORS

The students that improved, excelled, or received honors, gain recognition on these two unassuming yet spectacular pages.

In the past few years the Kachina Kiwanis of Sun City have given the Dysart students awards of merit in the areas of: business, art, agriculture, Choir, Drama, and band. The students that received these honors this year were: Annette Duarte, Business; Connie Gaitan, Home Economics; Ted Maynard, Vocational Agriculture; Tom Nadel, Drama; and Hector Celaya, Band.

Other students who received honors were Tom Nadel who placed fourth in the state competition in the 1984 Veterans of Foreign Wars Oratory Contest. He has received a total of $350 plus certificates, one medal, and a trophy for his speech, "My Role in Upholding the Constitution."

John Dave was chosen for Regional Band, and John Davey, Jeff Davey, and Jana Lalliss were chosen for Regional Choir.

In FFA, Ryan Poole received a 6th place ribbon in the livestock contest at the state fair.

These students well deserve the honors they received, but because of the time element involved in the production of this book, not all honors were mentioned. All students who received honors, whether mentioned or not, deserve recognition and congratulations.

KONNICHAWA/MOIN-MOIN

These greetings came from two very special students. If you haven't guessed yet, the first is Japanese and the second is German. They both mean "Hello".

Dagmar Dahlke (Daggie) and Ishii Yasunari (Norman) were our Exchange students this year. They both went through tests in English, general knowledge, and personality to qualify for the Foreign Exchange Student Program. Ms. Boener, this year's sponsor, raised interest in the program and school families volunteered to take these students into their homes.

Dagmar was the first to arrive, living with the Beasley's most of the year. She originates from the city Wenningstedt on the island Sylt in Germany. She has two brothers and a sister, and loves animals. In Germany, her school day started at 7:45 and went until about 1:00. She would then go out with her friends and have fun. Sometimes they would go to the beach, since she only lived 5 minutes away from it.

Her talents include playing the recorder and the piano, and singing in the choir in Germany. In this country she was a member of Student Council, the Foreign Language Club and the basketball team. She hardly found time for herself.

Dagmar, a senior, enjoyed Dysart and loved being active. She commented that her school in Germany wasn't as fun as the one here and though she missed her old friends, she made many new ones. There were a lot of things that she liked about the United States and Dysart, for instance, the homework was easier here, unfortunately, there was more of it.

Norman Ishii came to Dysart later than Dagmar, and originates from Tokyo, Japan. He was the first Japanese student to go to Sri Lanka, but because of the riot there, came here two months later than others did. He lived with the Grays and commented that they were very good people. Having family activities such as seeing movies, going to dinner, and sharing housework were some things they did together.

Norman has been playing the piano for 10 years and is on his way to becoming a concert pianist. He has already performed in many recitals, and in choir he played the piano for Mr. Hack at times. Other talents include rollerskating, singing, and wrestling.

Norman a senior, was in student council with Dagmar. They attended a convention for members in December. He was also on the wrestling team and really enjoyed it although it was hard work.

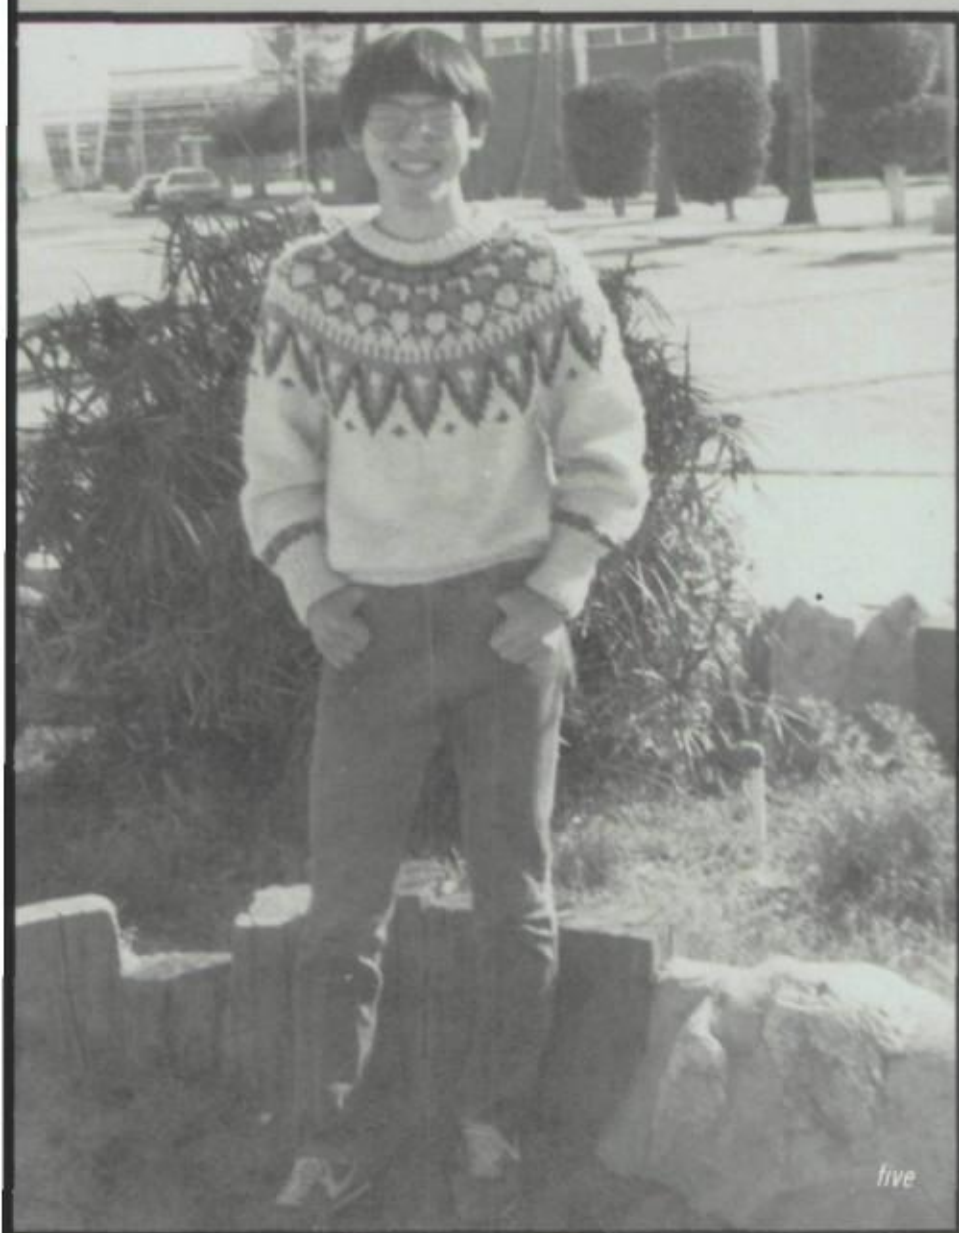

While he misses his old friends and school, he managed to find one to make it all worth while — root beer — something American that Japan doesn't have much of. Compared to Japan, we have much more space, he said, but we also have more homework than they did in Japan — Even though it is easier.

After all is said and done, we have learned many things about different cultures and the freedoms we enjoy as Americans. Having the Foreign Exchange student program was educational as well as a "radical way" to meet new people.

one) Hey Dagmar! With your style, those must be Foster Grants. two) "How much longer is it going to be?", says Norman, "Dagmar is falling asleep!" three) Could she be a future Ms. America Contestant? four) It's just Norman in one of those "relaxed" poses. five) "So . . . you like the Nikes, eh? I bought them for 5 dollars in Japan. Isn't that a rip-off?", says Norman.

one) Don't you think Boy George . . . oops, I mean Pat, should wear a bit more makeup? two) Seniors suffering from "Senioritis". three) "Here's to you my darling", says Randy to Yvette as they toast the evening of the Prom. four) "You can't throw me in jail, I have a speech contest I need to get to", says Tom to Anthony while John and Jeff look disgusted during the play Today's the Big Day. five) Could this be Patsy sending her sweetie some Valentines? six) A modern day classroom? No, this could only be the fantastic Pom line practicing their part in the Dance Show. seven) I guess Band has decided to march to Disneyland. eight) "Matt, I still don't see how you can sit and cross your legs like that", says Darlene while practicing for the play The Sandbox.

SPRING STUFF

Bursting into full bloom this spring season came many exciting activities. This year brought "radical" times (as well as crazy people) onto the scene.

Enthusiasm abounded as all the traditional stuff came out in the open. When "Hush-Day" rolled around you had to try pretty hard to get those awesome bow-ties and hearts away from each other; and the Carnations sold by Student Council for Valentine's Day, added a nice touch to the notes attached. Other Spring activities included the Key Club attending the Convention held at the Scottsdale Resort; Band attending Disneyland; Choir singing their hearts out at various performances; Spring Break; the Talent Show; the Sweetheart Dance; photo and art exhibits; and an assortment of sports activities.

"What a Feeling" was the theme for the annual spring dance show. The lineup this year included all the dance classes, ours and Sun City's pom lines, dancers from the Royal Dance Works, a teacher lineup, and a couples dance. This grand production was held April 12th and 13th.

Along with the dancing came the acting, right? So . . . we rushed over to Mr. Butler (our hero) and found out what was happening. Well, Tom Nadel had just won 3rd in the state for his speech, and Drama was in the process of putting together four short plays: Impromptu, The Sandbox, Sorry, Wrong Number, and Today's the Big Day.

One of the most important Spring events was the Prom. This special night was spent reminiscing, dancing, and having dinner — as well as going to the limit with fancy dresses and suits. The Holidome was the setting for this memorable night, and was the ideal place for the theme "Candlelight and Roses."

Near the end of the year, Seniors started feeling the onset of "senioritis." Passing around memory books and sending graduation announcements were just some of the activities they enjoyed.

Spring Break and sports won the award for most popular, but we'll leave it up to you to decide your favorite "Spring Stuff."

BATTERED BEST

Although they didn't come out with a good winning season. This years varsity football team gave it their best.

The Demons had a real big win against West High 35 to 0, which gave the Demons a very much needed boost to the morale of the team. Morale was low due to two grueling losses to Buckeye, Pheonix Christian, and a disappointing tie with the Demons arch-rivals the Peoria Panthers, a game in which both teams had a chance to win in the final few minutes of the game by a field goal.

As the Demons season went on they encountered many difficulties due to injuries of many varsity players. Ken Allen and Joe Shorten were taken out for the season against Wickenburg. Mike Carbajal was also out for two weeks due to a twisted ankle. Then the mighty Demons faced Apache Junction! This was a game in which the Demons gave them a run for their money, but lost quarterback Ozzie Puente, John LaFleur (lineman), and Frank Garcia (linebacker, running back) for the rest of the season.

The next week was the Homecoming game and the Demons had not yet adjusted to the loss of so many players, so again the Demons took another painful defeat. With all these losses due to an unhealthy team, the varsity football coach had to recruit J.V. players for the remaining two games.

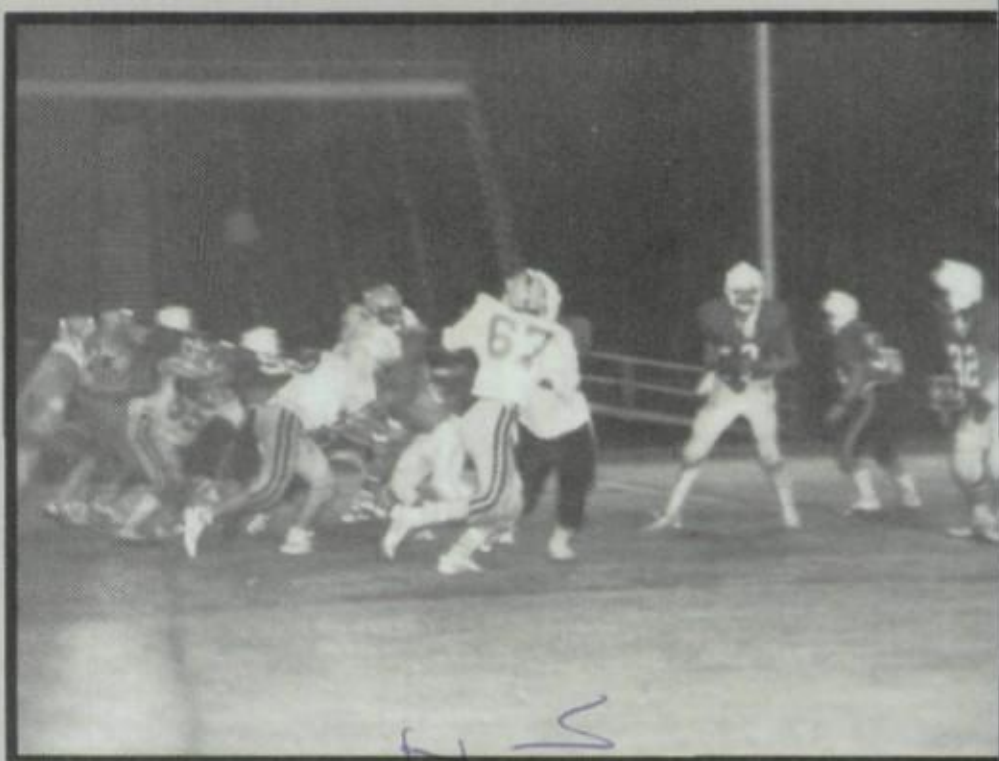

Then the Demons and Parker met in a game which caused another loss of two players, Eddie Laborin and Mateo Alejandre, for the rest of the season. In the last two games the J.V. players that played well were Oscar Occhiline, Ricardo Cordova, Gilbert Romero, Eli Murillo, and Frankie Garcia who made two interceptions.

The skills displayed by these J.V. players will ensure a prosperous and winning season for the future varsity football teams!

RUNNING FOR GLORY

Dawn Wilson

Runners-to you're mark-get set- "Bang"! Who will win, we wonder, as the dust flies by. Then, out of the cloud left behind, someone in red emerges and crosses the finish line. We've done it again! Dysart adds another win to their long list.

While most people were home after school, those fanatical Cross-Country Members were out doing their daily 6-12 miles of running. "It was a tough season", stated freshman Edward Beltran. But improvement showed in the Demon Team as they ran away with more wins than in previous years. With only 2 returning lettermen, the team was joined by junior Hank Fernandez and five tough, determined freshmen. The pride and determination put forth by these individuals showed in the 10-1 record they held, their third place finish at divisionals, and their ninth place at the state A Championships.

Although the majority of the team was inexperienced, the team's hopes were high for next year. Says senior Ruben Hernandez, "These guys were tough throughout the season. By the time they are Seniors, they should have a state-winning team." Congratulations Cross-Country, you did a fantastic job!

one) Joe Escobedo, a very tired runner. two) Okay guys-Show us your underalls! The Team: Ivan Noriega, Edward Torres, Edward Beltran, Joe Escobedo, Ruben Hernandez, An imposter, Hank Fernandez. three) "Ivan I'll catch you," Hank thinks. four) What are you taking my picture for? five) One survivor of the many runners. six) Give me a break! seven) Two tough guys. eight) Smile! WELCOME BACK

After a years absence, the Demon volleyball squad came back with a great team. The coach was Mrs. Kohler and the team consisted of a J.V.-Frosh group of girls.

Team member Jessica Carbajal stated "The team worked hard and they all worked together to make a good season." She also said, "Mrs. Kohler was a good coach that brought the team together. We hope that this tradition continues. Let's make the best better."

Coach Kohler said, "They did very well for a first year team. We won 7 games and lost 3. We didn't place because these weren't competition games. I do plan to have a team next year. I enjoyed coaching the team. They worked very hard."

"I think that the most exciting game was against Parker because in the first game they beat us and Mrs. Kohler was nodding her head as if she was ashamed of us. I guess you could say we bearily had a team too because Jackie Dominguez and Monica Acosta didn't go. So that put a little more pressure on us. But we came and won anyway." exclaimed Jacque Estavillo.

The season ended successfully with a total of 7 wins and 3 losses.

BEST EVER

Dribbling down court while the crowd cheered, getting pepped up and ready to play, this was a great part of being a varsity basketball player. The crowd made them excited and enthusiastic to beat anyone they played. It took a lot of practice and hard work to have had the winning season they had.

The varsity basketball team was successful due to the coaching of Mr. Snyder. The practices were organized and well attended. They had talent out there on the court and they produced well during the season. Outstanding players like Kenny Marshall (10), Ken Allen (12), and Greg Mason (11) made basketball games a real event and never dull. Games like the ones against Wickenburg — when there was only one minute and ten seconds left, and we gave the ball to Ken and he did a fabulous dunk shot just as the buzzer sounded ending the game — kept fans coming back for more. All the varsity players played almost every basketball game win or lose. No matter who started the game, the subs that went in produced just as well as starters most of the time. "The best game we ever had was the one against Phoenix Christian here at home when they were beating us by 15 points, and we came back and took the glory", stated Greg Mason.

This is a sign of the great team we had. Good sportsmanship, teamwork, and hard work that led to great skills all made Dysarts basketball team one of the best ever.

TRUCKING

"We don't travel, we truck!" That was a very popular cheer for the J.V. and freshmen basketball teams.

The J.V. basketball team was more than just good, it was excellent. J.V. basketball players were very hard workers. Proving this, they won all conference games. In conference, they were undefeated, 11 wins, and 5 losses.

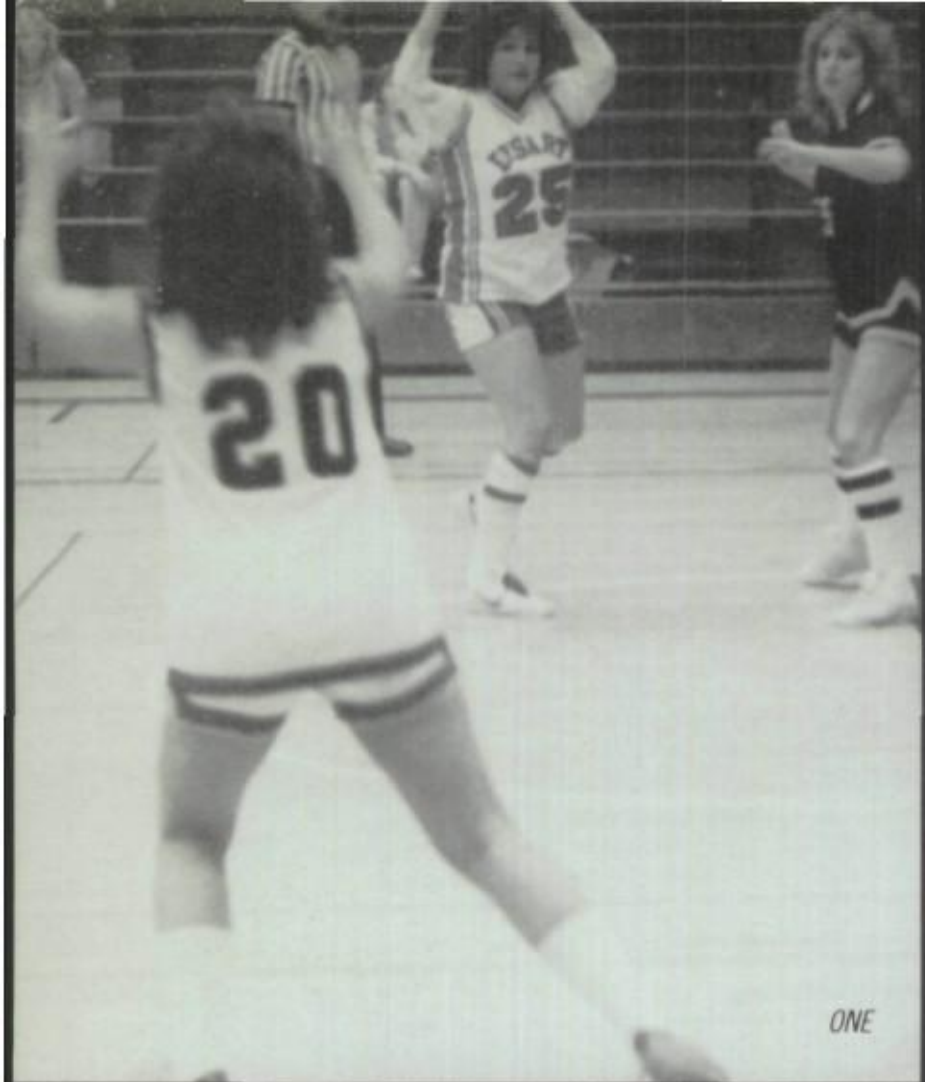

"We had a very good, strict coach," stated Paul Wells. The excellent team consisted of Mario Montoya, Ricardo Cordova, Paul Wells, Bobby Ellis, Curtis Washington, Gabriel Rodriguez, Eddie Galindo, and the coach was Mr. Hegglar.

On the other hand the freshmen basketball team had a streak of bad luck. With some losses behind them, they came through with a victory against Phoenix Christian. Dysart won by over eighteen points.

The outstanding players were Rudy Macias, Danny Jojola, Ramon Arizmendez, Carlos Perez, and Leon Allen. With enthusiasm, Mr. Young coached these players to a very well planned victory that will be remembered for a long time to come.

As the ball slowly sank through the hoop, once more, the J.V. season ended successfully. The freshmen gave it their best shot. All in all, they were our J.V. and freshmen basketball teams.

ALL THE RIGHT MOVES

It's a bird, it's a plane, no—it's the fantastic Dysart "Globtrotettes," making their comeback for the second year in a row. As they bounded down the court and sank the ball, we remained spellbound with the skills they demonstrated and the excitement they stimulated.

Both teams were joined by new players, who practiced from 4 to 6 p.m. after school to help develop skills needed to compete out on the court. Games took place on Tuesdays and Fridays at 4 p.m. for J.V., and 5:30 for varsity; give or take a few minutes for overtime.

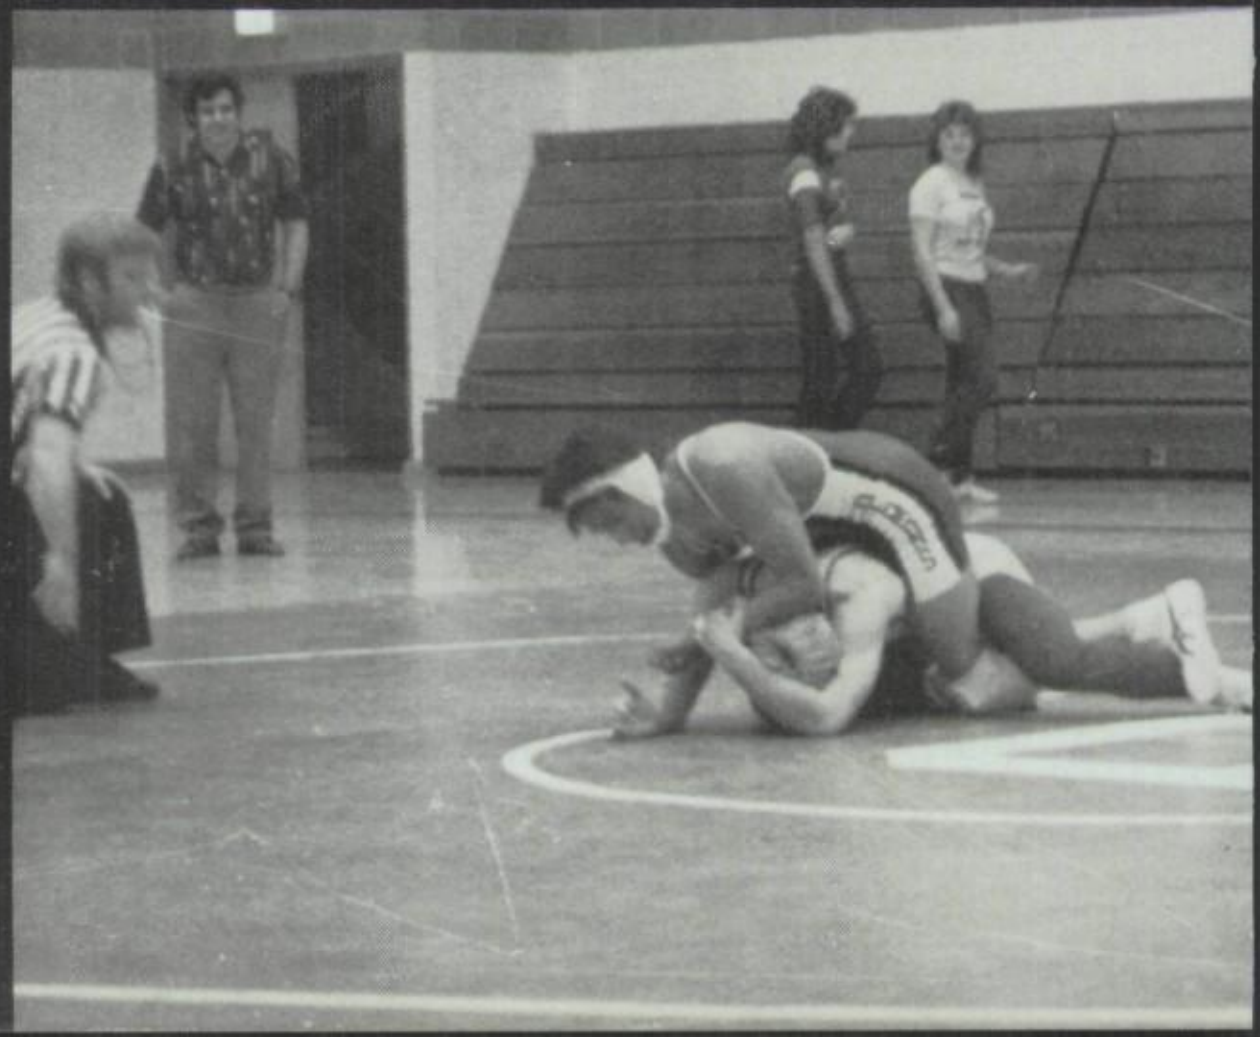

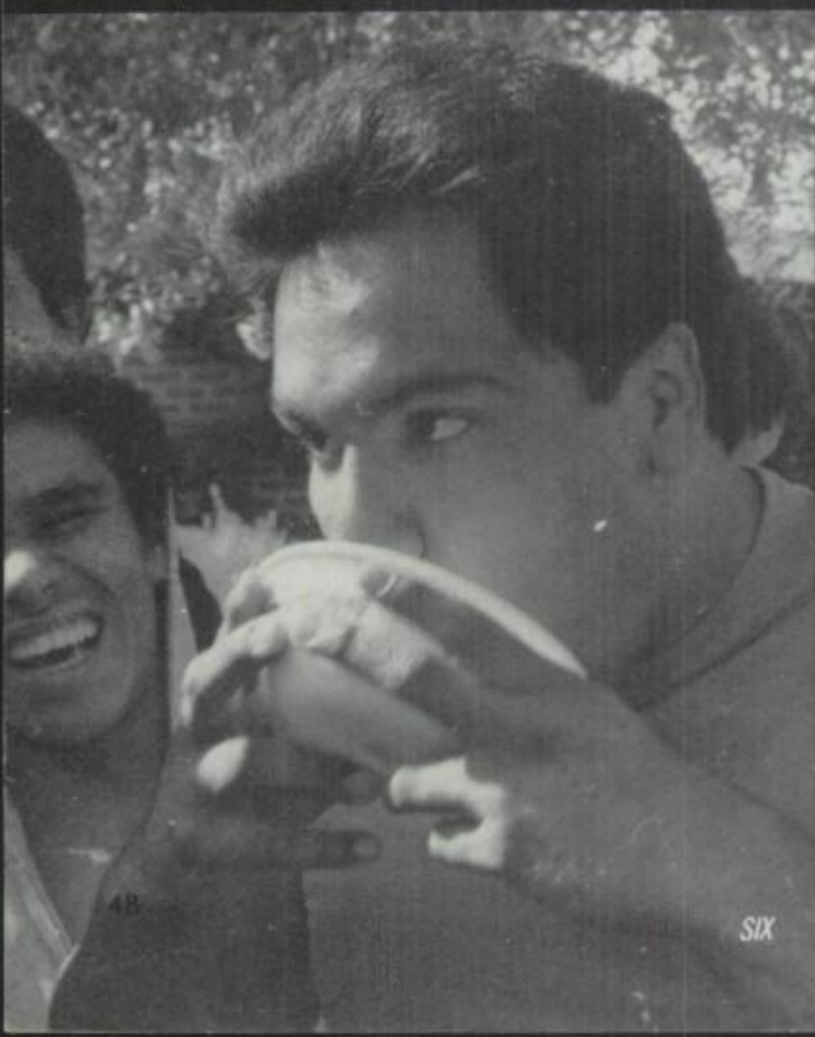

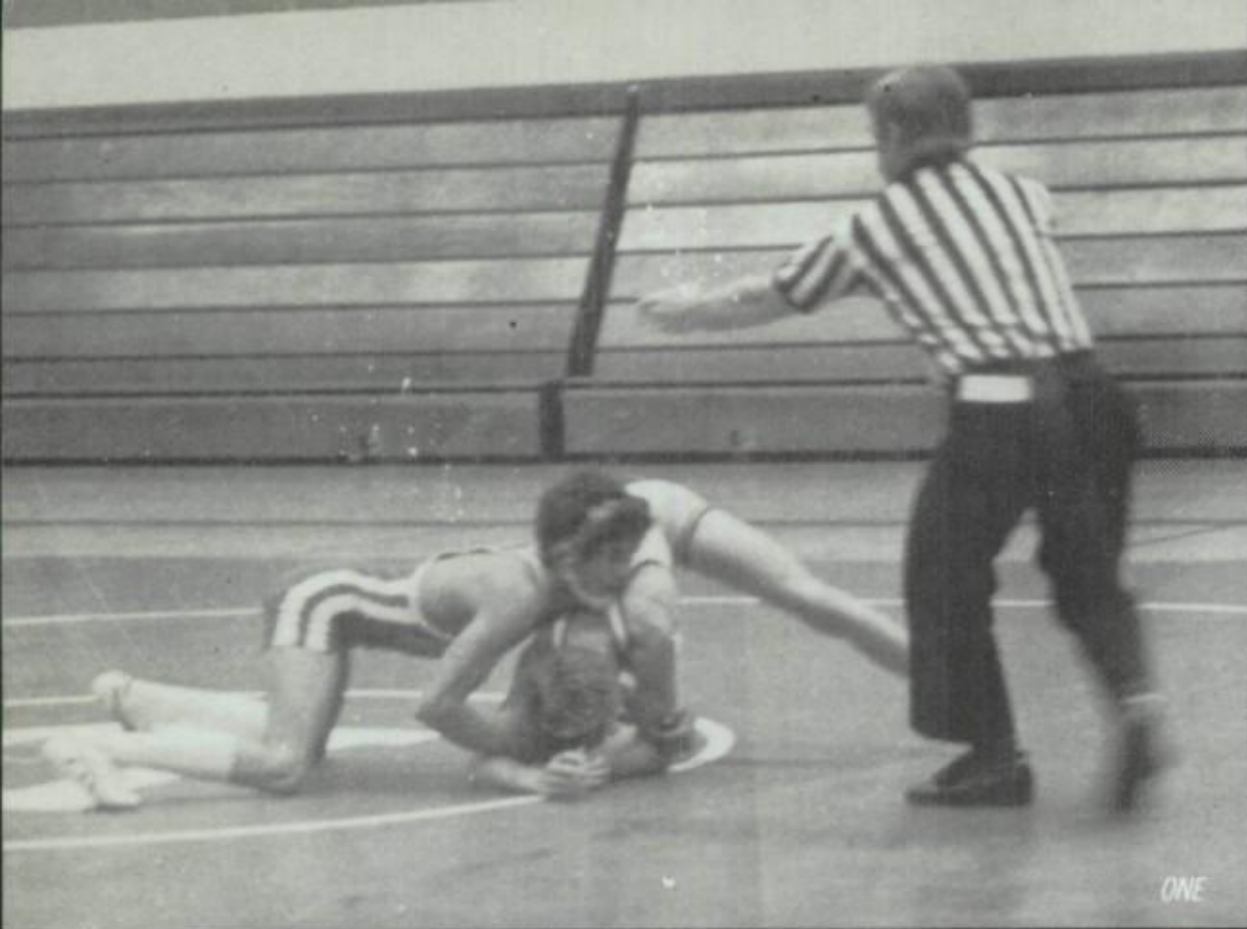

Coaching the teams, was the Director of the Migrant Program—Mr. Ralph Navarre—who has had 7 years of coaching experience, and was a member of the AIA (Arizona Interscholastic Association) for 3 years. He stated that the team goals were working together and improving individual skills.

To really check out the scene, we went to the courts and asked some of the players how they felt about the team. "We have a lot of fun playing together. There's a lot of crazy people playing, so we have a great time," exclaimed Diane Quintana and Dagmar Dahlke. Irma Mendoza also remarked, "We try hard to play as a team, and at the same time—have fun!" Most of the girls played on both teams throughout the year, switching off made it easier on them all.

As we came to the final seconds of the game, we could tell that the girls put forth a lot of effort and practice, because it showed in their moves, shots, and sportsmanship out on the court. Although on paper their scores weren't the greatest, in our eyes, we saw a truly "winning" season.

WRESTLING WRAP-UP

As the crowd roared, the Dysart Demon wrestlers walked in with heads high and winning determination. In great condition both mentally and physically, they knew victory was at hand.

"In the sport of wrestling it takes a lot of discipline, a good attitude, determination, and hard work," said Ralph Castro. This season our team had 13 wrestlers. Coach Kitchen stated, "The ones I had out were good hard workers."

Even though competition was on an individual basis they still had team work. They gave each other confidence. If one lost as an individual, they lifted his spirits and encouraged each other to do better next time.

In this years individual and invitational meets they had lots of tough competition. In the Dysart Invitational there were 17 participating schools. We had 3 wrestlers who placed. Placing 2nd at 112 was Ralph Castro, and at 183, also 2nd was Benji Carrasco. Frank Garcia wrestled at 138 placing 4th.

With fewer participants than in earlier seasons there was less opportunity to learn new techniques which are usually brought about by wrestling each other. Even though the team wasn't "HUGE" they certainly did pack in a tremendous amount of success.

one) Coach !! Is this the way you roll-em? two) All balled up. three) "Hold on there . . . give me your other arm," says Ruben Valdivia. four) Benjie Carrasco gets another pin for the Demons. five) Coach Kitchen and Mike Carbajal think to themselves, "Looks like another rough night." six) Benjie makes weight. seven) Oh . . . Look!! Frank's on top! eight) Mike Carbajal says " . . . Now whose got who?"

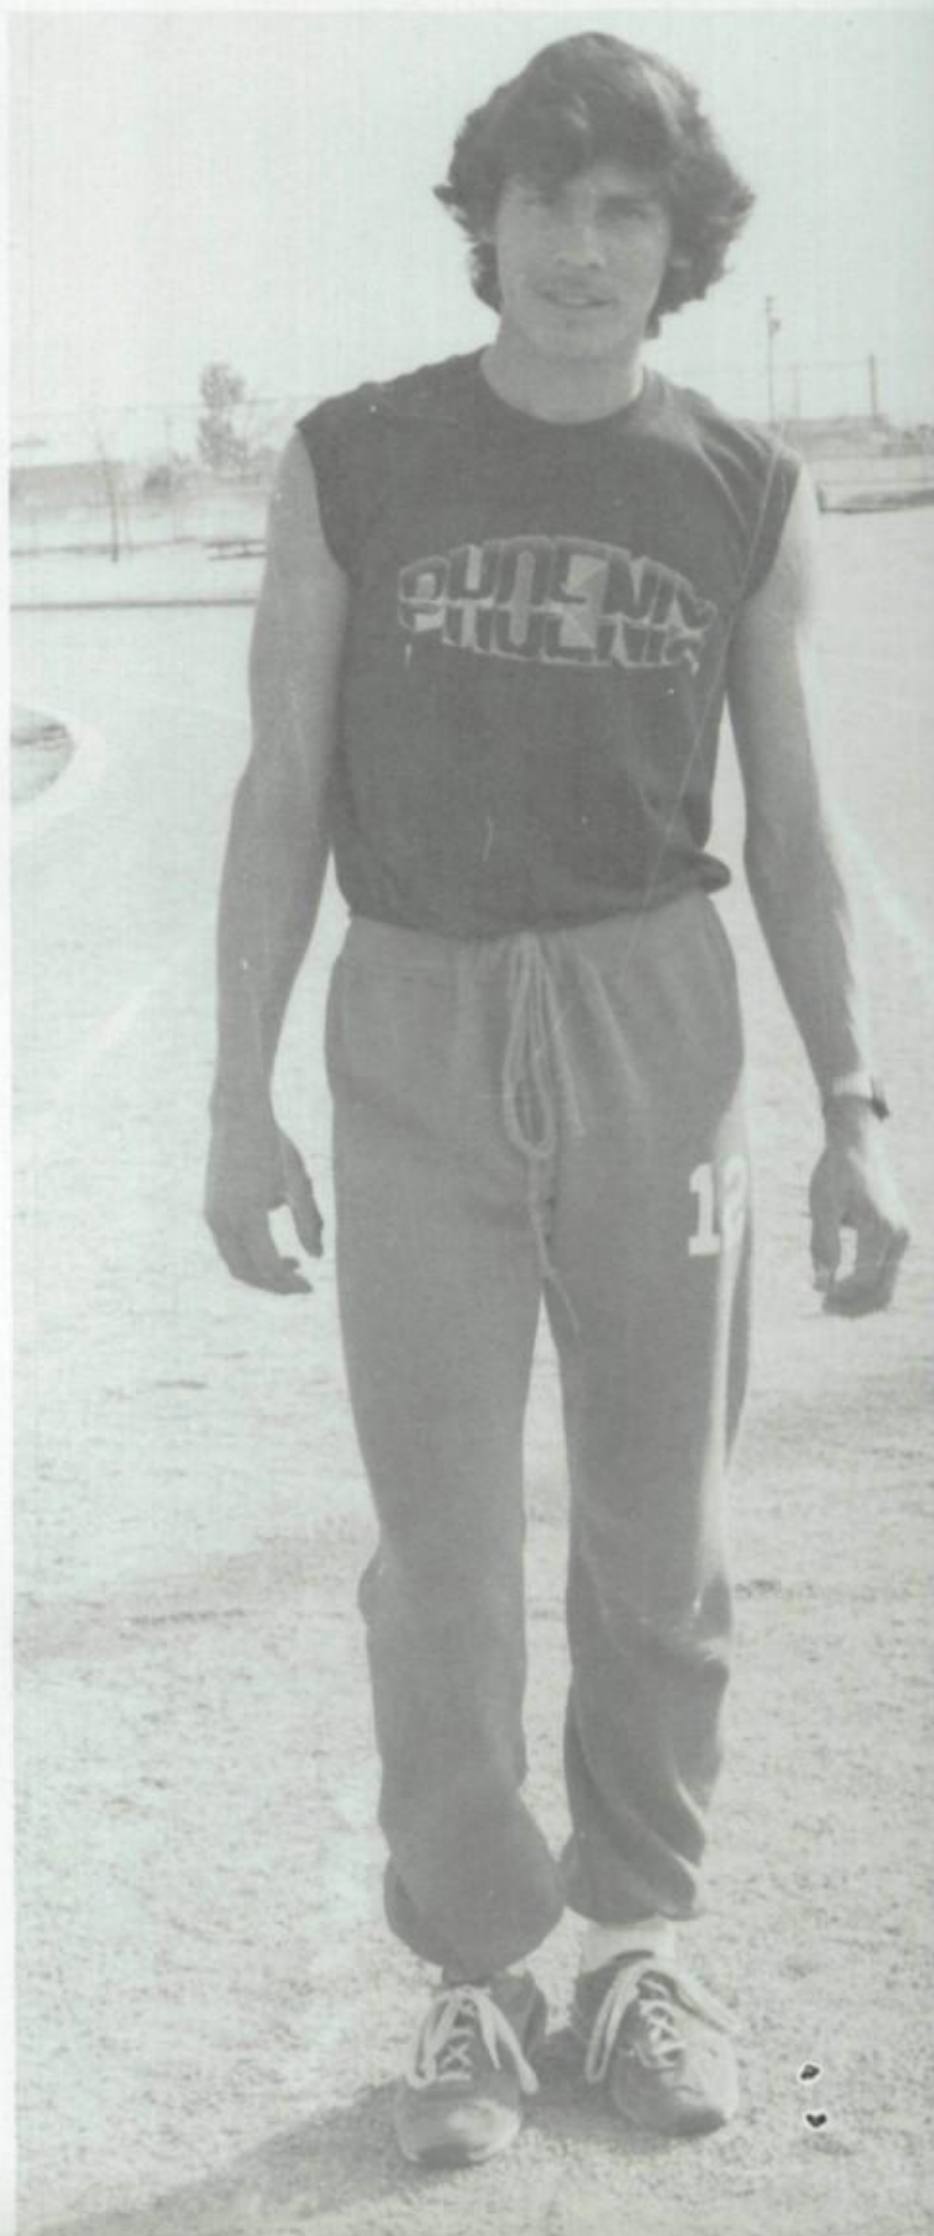

Welcome, sports fans, to our sports Hall of Fame. Immortalized on these two pages are some of Dysart's finest athletes. When the year in sports began, football was the big attraction. Our All-Stars in football were Joe Vandzura and Greg McDonald (who were on the second team all conference) and Ralph Castro, who earned honorable mention.

Our outdoors view of sports brings us a closer look at the All-Stars in Cross Country. Our Cross Country All-Star was Ivan Noriega — who became conference champion, breaking a course record for the second time. "It was a great feeling because I was working harder this year than last year since it's my Senior year." Ivan intends to pursue Cross Country through college and strives one day to make the Olympics. "Mr. Padilla gave me a lot of confidence to accomplish my goals", explained Ivan.

In our next sports arena we check out our demonic wrestlers. Especially one in particular. Senior, Mike Carbajal, took first in divisionals and state. "I felt good about what I accomplished," stated Mike, "I had to practice two and a half hours of both basketball and wrestling to stay down to weight, to stay really in shape." Mike intends to further his sports experience in college. When asked if his experience at Dysart will help him in the future, he said "Yea, it's going to help me a lot. It gave me responsibility. There was a lot of times I thought I would quit but the coaches helped work things out so I wouldn't quit. They always said that if I want it bad enough I have to work for it". Another top wrestler was Ralph Castro who placed second at the Demon invitationals, and Benjie Carrasco who placed fourth at divisionals and state. Benjie stated, "I felt pretty good because I've been trying for four years and never placed before".

Well sports fans, that was quite a fantastic line-up of Outstanding Athletes, but then again — Dysart always turns out the finest.

CAMPUS RUNS SMOOTHLY

In the distance you see two specks heading steadily in your direction. As the specks grow nearer you realize it is Dr. Fiebiger, the principal, and Mr. Shumway, the vice principal. As they pass by, you contemplate the dismal aspect of maybe someday not having them around to keep things running smoothly. Who else could handle the unique everyday occurrences at Dysart with such ease and cheerfulness?

President of the School Board, Mrs. Margaret Baker, comments, "We are really pleased with the stricter attendance policy at the high school and the strengthening of the graduation requirements. We want our school to be committed to excellence."

This year we had a new face in Attendance, Lydia Florez, former Dysart High School student. Another new face was Joan Collins, secretary for Dr. Fiebiger. She did work at the District Office before coming to the high school campus. Our two new counselors this year were Ms. Margaret Marquez and Mrs. Peggy Gilbert. These two ladies began work on counseling programs that helped students survive high school.

As you consider the valuable assistance that was available to you we leave the graduating class with these parting words from Dr. Jones, our superintendent.

Congratulations and Farewell

Dear Member of the class of 1984:

Your senior year and graduation mark the completion of your education. Your school experiences have meant many things to you. Figuratively speaking, you have provided an opportunity to catch a glimpse of the many sides of man, and the excellence to which he has aspired, or failed to aspire.

You have been permitted to sense man's baseness as well as his greatness; his capacity to endure as well as surrender; his infidelity as well as his faith and his faithfulness; his ability to love, yet hate; his burning desire for peace, yet his waging of war. In short, you have explored the beautiful and ugly sides of man.

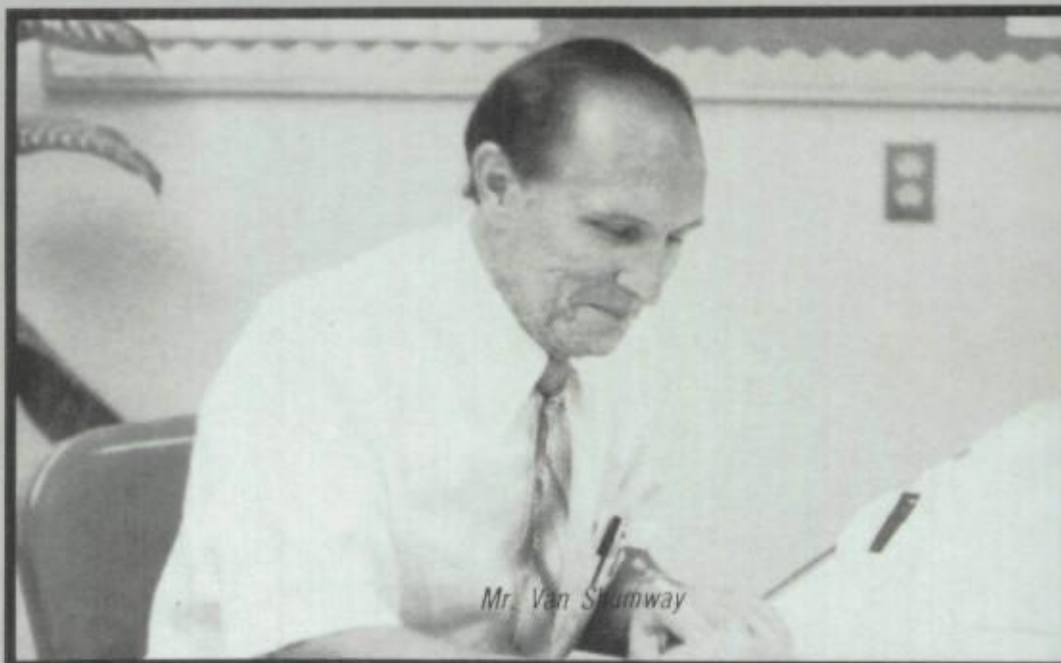

To understand the difference and to build your future on the enduring qualities of mankind will to a great extent determine success, happiness, and meaning in your life. You have a good beginning and "Today is the first day of the rest of your life."

As you depart D.H.S. with four years of memories, some positive and some negative, I know the Governing Board and entire staff share with me the joy I feel in congratulating the remarkable class of 1984.

Best wishes. We will miss you.

COMPUTERS AND TUTORS

Keeping up with technological advancements, the Dysart Business department had several dynamic additions this year.

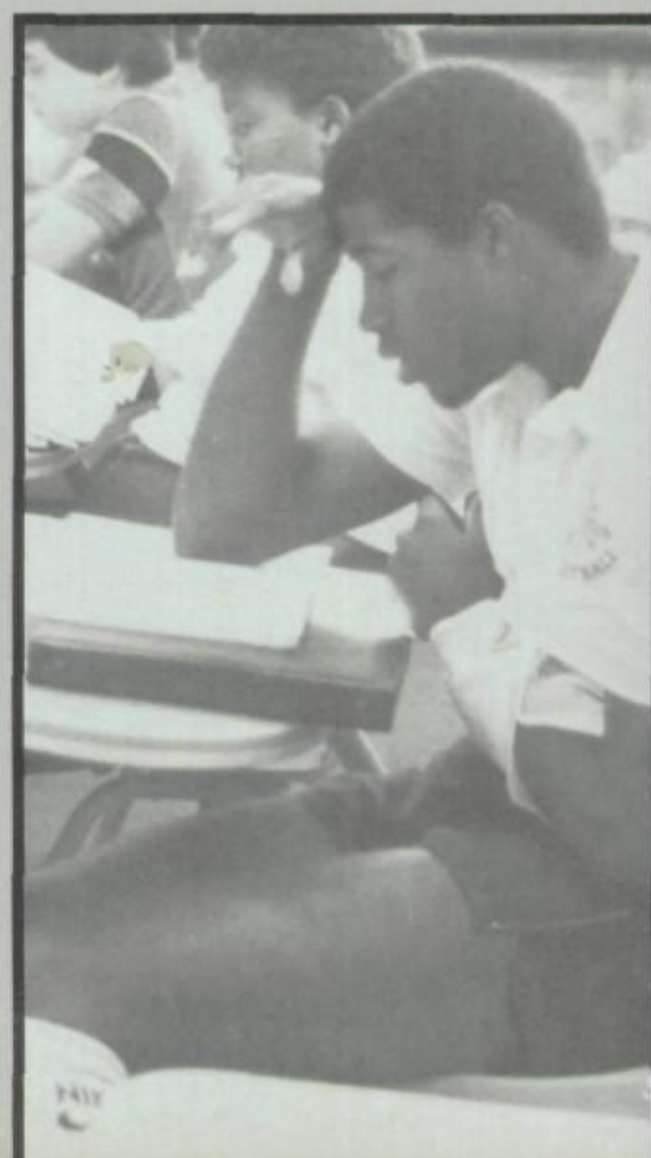

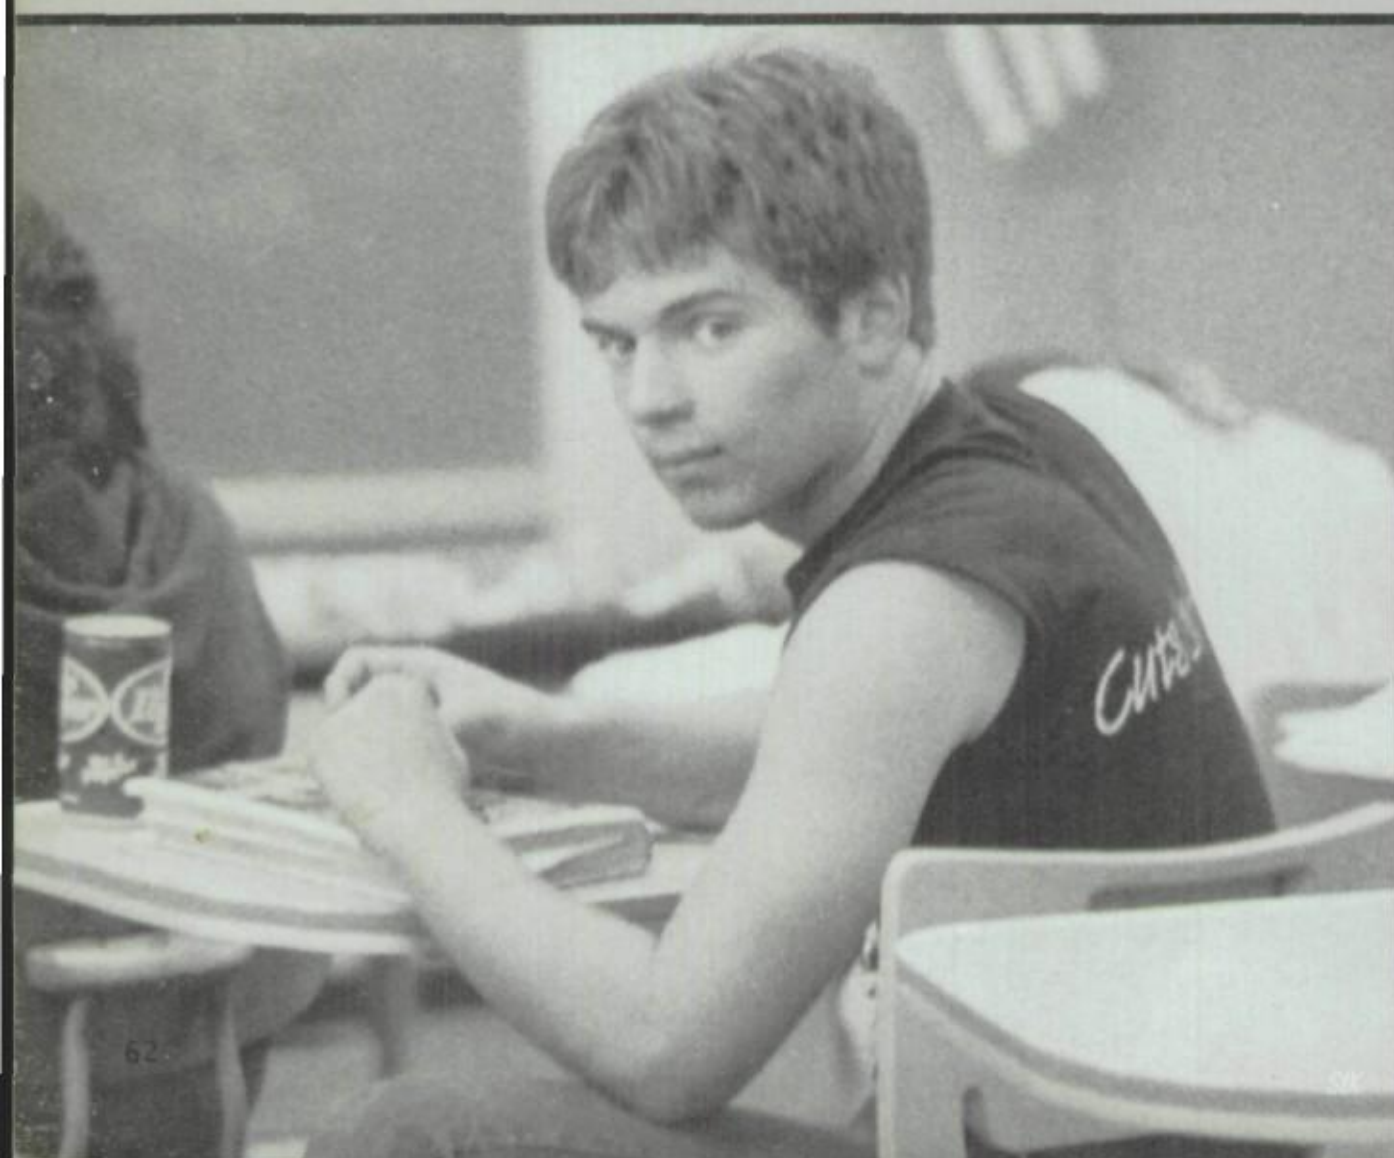

Since the world thinks computers, so did Dysart. Apple computers were set up in room 104. Students were given experience on these and the Commodore computers. Things they learned included word processing, text editing, form letters, reports, and office type simulation. When asked about the computer class, Martha Pedroza stated, "It will help me to understand and to operate a computer."

Another new addition was the Silverreed typewriters. These typewriters made typing much easier because students didn't have to wait for the carriage to return, and centering and underlining was at the touch of a button.

With the expert teaching of Mrs. Stump, Mrs. Amator, Mrs. Robertson, and Mr. Kitchen, and state-of-the-art equipment DHS was able to better their students' knowledge of business.

Heading into the reading department you may have been surprised to find fifth grade students in class. A new program, the Metra Program, was designed to help the high school students and the fifth graders. It helped to improve reading skills making it fun to both learn and read in the unique tutoring program. All in all, Norma Bazua said, "Tutoring the Junior High students helped their ability to read and mine also."

ONE) Maria Salazar tutors a fifth grade student as part of the Metra Program. TWO) Mrs. Robertson teaches her students how to daydream. THREE) "Hey, I know the answer to that question," says Mrs. Stump. FOUR) Yolanda Lechuga takes a camera break! FIVE) "That's the tenth mistake I've made in this sentence!" exclaims Angie DelaCruz. SIX) "I don't think they are supposed to put things like this in a book!" exclaims Judy Marquez. SEVEN) "See, this is easy," says Norma Bazua.

PRACTICALITY ADDS INTEREST

There is a lot more to math than most people think. Math is not just dealing with numbers, it encourages you to think and enables you to find the solution to your problems. Students learned skills needed for their future, and, of course, their present family economy. They learned how to fill out tax forms, they learned how to figure their income in a regular daily budget, and they dealt with problems in the business world.

As you can see the math department taught students well so they could make it on their own. Mr. Linthacum said that what he wanted to do was to help each student develop the skills needed to live a full and happy life. The math department did its best to develop the students' skills so they would be interested in college, technical, mechanical, and professional fields.

A rather new member to the Math department was the computer. Actually, there were nine. Computer programming was taught in the Algebra $\frac{3}{4}$ class as well as in a class of its own. Todd Bakke, President of the Computer Club, said that there should be more emphasis on the uses of computers.

Mr. D'Attore stated "Computers are really getting into the life of every individual because of their diverse uses and also because they are easy to operate."

Learning how to cope in the world was the main goal in the Math department this year. Thanks to Mr. Linthacum, Mr. D'Attore, Mrs. Poland, and Mr. Eadleman, that goal was easily reached.

TAKING YOU TO OUR LITERS

Poof! As the smoke clears, we see students scurrying to cover themselves as acid eats away at their clothes. Could this have been the fate of Mrs. Theis' chemistry classes? Not if they were wearing their safety equipment. Of course, everybody wore their safety goggles and aprons didn't they? . . . Really though, the chemicals may at times have been explosive, but basically chemistry was a very exciting class in which students learned valuable information that they would need in college, if they decide to go.

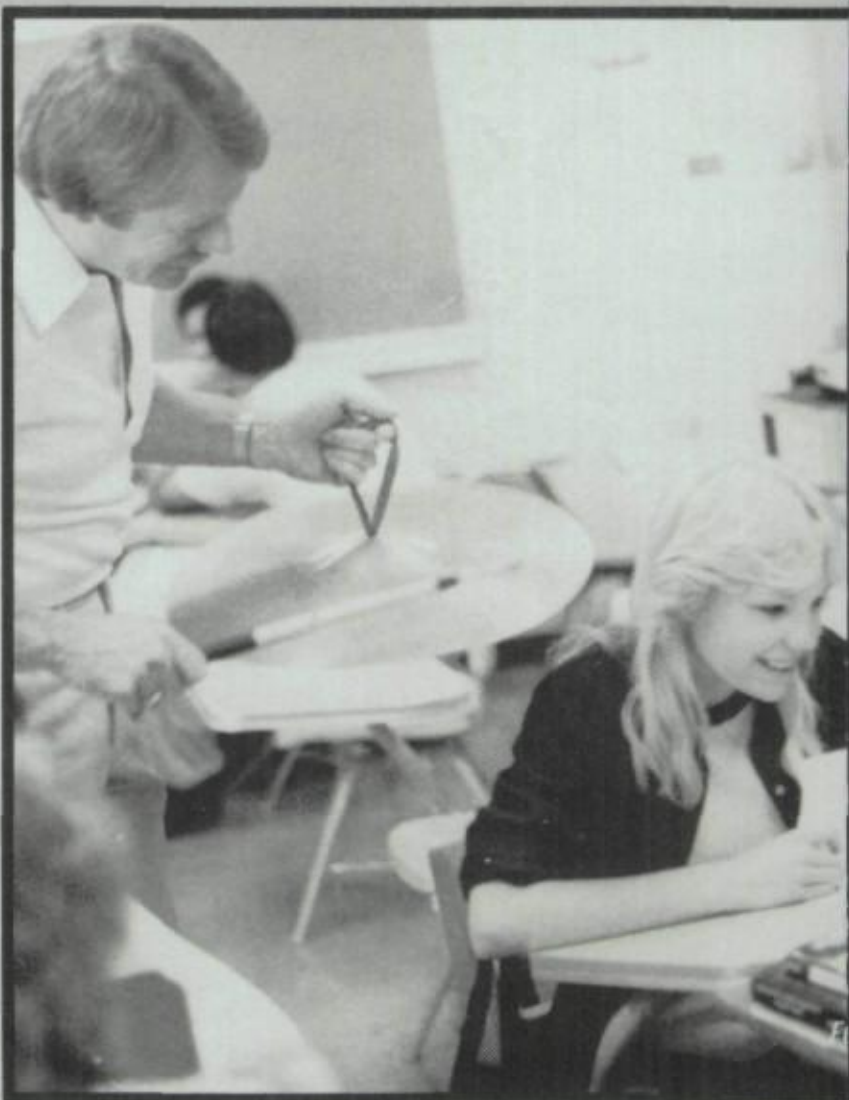

Looking in on her Biology and Advanced Biology classes, we found that they happened to be studying BACTERIA! Who would have thought that the best specimen for the petri dishes came from the cafeteria! Throughout the year, the classes studied: hematology, dissection, embryology, and many other exciting subjects.

Near the beginning of October, strange sounds were heard coming from Mr. Snyder's room. Were the students finally feeling the results of homework and banging on the walls? No, actually it was only an experiment conducted to show that you can't concentrate with loud sounds coming at you from all angles. To make it even harder, the students had to write with the hand they usually didn't use, and also had to look in a mirror which made the paper they were writing on seem backwards. After a lot of squiggly lines and frustrated looks, the experiment was finished. The results? Headaches, ringing ears, and eye strain — along with a new perception about not being able to concentrate with excessive noise all around you.

Going to the head of the science department, Mr. Hintlian commented that Dysart High School has an outstanding science department, offering more than a school five times our size! He hopes to see Biology required again to graduate.

In Earth Science, the most exciting part of the year came when rocketry blasted onto the scene. Students everywhere gathered to watch the historic take off of the various rockets. Outdoor Education planned their usual trip to Skull Cave for three days at the beginning of the year. All the backpackers enjoyed the long hike, just as all the science students enjoyed the long year.

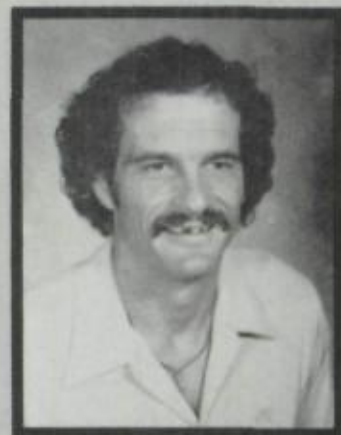

one) Yes, Tom, your theory has merit. two) Just one drop at a time . . . three) What do you think about the reactions of polyatomic ions, Jeff? four) Carrie wishes Mr. Snyder will go play his symbol in the band, not in her ear. five) Mrs. Theis finally finds time to eat lunch. six) Mario easily finds time to write looking in the mirror. seven) Mike, we know you're cool, but can't you smile just once? eight) Let's take the day off.

AMERICA EXPLORED

Does American History remind you of Paul Revere riding through the streets of Boston late at night calling out, "The British are coming-the British are coming!"? Or does Free-Enterprise remind you of politicians crying out, "Will we ever balance the budget?" Does American Government answer the question "Why should we care?"

Learning our American History and Free Enterprise system was an important part of daily life for many this year. For starters, Mr. Braden and Mrs. Stout took their History classes to see the movie 1776. "It was quite an experience!" exclaimed Jana Lalliss. The government classes learned more about the U.S. Constitution while comparing it to that of the U.S.S.R.

The Free Enterprise classes also learned about the different economic systems and governments throughout the world.

Many is the time a teacher told us it's important to know about the history of our land and to be aware of what happened in the past. Hopefully, we won't make similar mistakes.

LANGUAGE-ALIVE AND WELL

You are walking through an Egyptian desert. It is the year 2500 B.C. You have been traveling many miles and are you ever thirsty! Up ahead is a huge boulder with a pictographic message on it left by previous travelers. Two bodies of water are indicated three days journey to the west. One body of water is poisonous. You look, but find no clue as to which one is poisonous. The makings of a novel? No, just one of the activities concerning the creation and progression of spoken and written language that was taught in Ms. Della-Calce's English classes.

Ms. Della-Calce wasn't the only teacher with pizzaz this year, Mrs. Frye's freshmen English class studied Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. Mrs. Drake's second hour class wrote formal letters to Dr. George Smith, President of the State Board of Education, and Representative Jim Cooper, Chairman of the Board of Education. The students were protesting the proposed lengthening of the school year and day. The students received a reply from Mr. Cooper but did not receive one from Mr. Smith. The students received experience on how to get actively involved in the government.

Foreign Language classes were very exciting this year, especially with the arrival of our two Foreign Exchange Students, Dagmar (Daggie) Dahlke, and Ishii Yasunari (Norman). Highlights of the classes included the production of a radio commercial in a foreign language, and the National French Test.

Thanks to the English teachers, we had a fun year of learning about the history of English, writing, literature, and the languages of other countries.

Have you ever wanted to make dresser for your room? Clean the carburetor of dad's car? Cook like mom does? Or drive a car? The students who took classes like auto shop, wood shop, home economics, and drivers education no longer have to wish, thanks to Mr. Bingham who taught his classes how to make dressers, cabinets and tables; Mr. Brooks who taught his classes how to clean carburetors and even to change the oil of a car; Mrs. South who taught her classes how to cook many new and interesting foods; Mr. Anglin who taught his Drivers Ed students how to, of course, drive.

The P.E. classes did many things. Mrs. Kohler taught her girls P.E. students everything from badminton to jumping hurdles, and Mr. Tassinari taught everything from basketball to wrestling. The adaptive P.E. classes, taught by Mr. Fenton, were for students who had broken an arm, leg, etc. They went swimming and lifted weights to rebuild their strength.

All in all the Vocational/P.E. classes were a great asset to Dysart. They gave students a taste of the real world, and taught many new skills that will be needed both now and in the future.

FINE ARTS LEAD TO FINE CAREERS

Have you ever thought of being a singer? Or maybe a photographer? How about a dancer? Or even an artist? Students who had these professions in mind worked in the Fine Arts department this year.

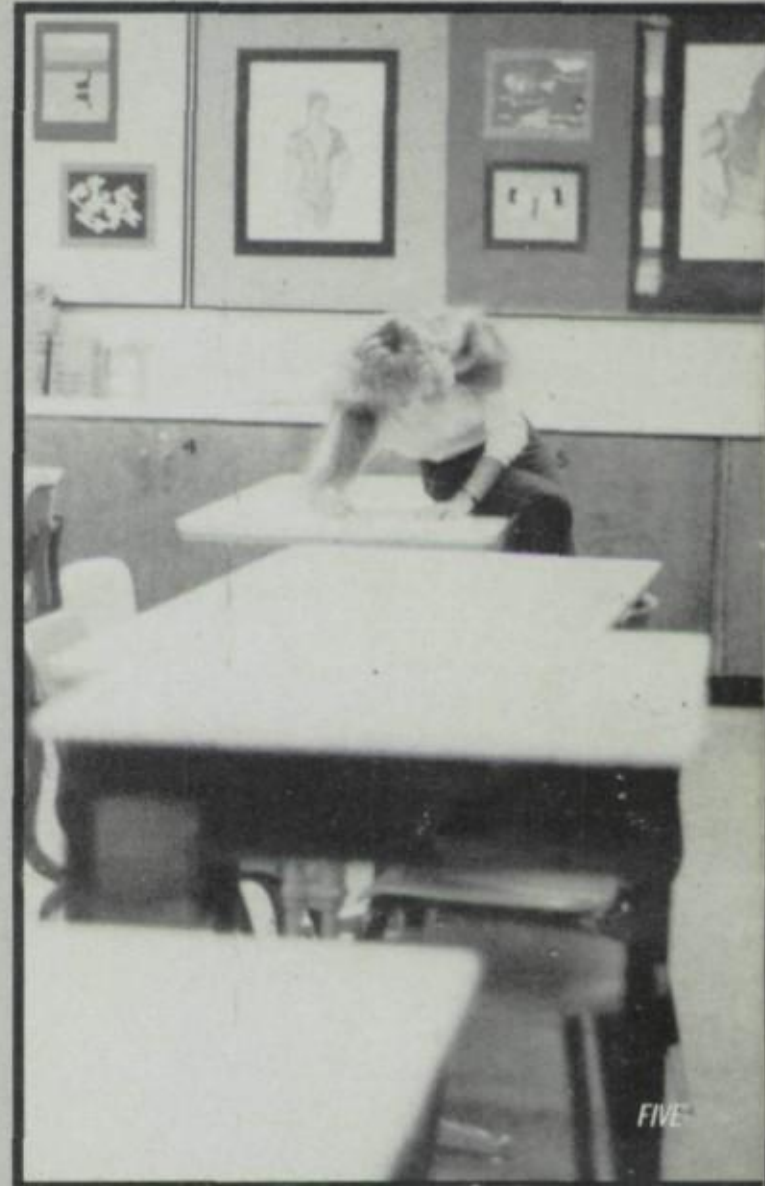

While most people think you can skate through Fine Arts, students worked to learn skills that could lead into several different careers. For example, commercial artistry, photo journalism, professional dancing, and music.

Fine Arts was a lot of hard work, but it paid off. In the spring, during the annual dance show, put on by Ms. Dana and her dance classes, the photo classes displayed work which was set up in the lobby of the gym, and Mr. Flesher's room was open with different art projects on display. Band and choir also held their annual Spring Concert.

Thanks to Ms. Clark, Ms. Dana, Mrs. Duff, Mr. Flesher, and Mr. Hack, we had a fun year of Fine Arts at DHS.

GOALS SOUGHT EARNESTLY

There were several areas in the curriculum to take care of the special needs of our student body.

Going first to the migrant work study which Mrs. Simmons supervised, we saw many students working at various jobs throughout the day. One such person was Connie Vigueria. She was training to be a clerical secretary, working on secretarial machinery. Another hard worker was Janette Duarte who worked part-time with the handicapped students at the Junior High, and at the preschool center at Luke. Adolpho Comacho worked in the cafeteria for food service. He also took care of the tickets in the morning. All in all, there were approximately 20 locations to work on campus.

The learn and earn program for migrant students had strict standards. They received a credit for doing their job, so they had to do it well. The migrant work study program is federally funded and it was essentially a career survival back-up class.

One of the activities they were striving for this year was "Project Mexico". They held money making projects such as the Karate Clinic on Oct. 22nd, and this also included banquets and works shops held during the year.

Another very important department was Special Education, headed by Mrs. Lela Stoleson. Too often people feel the students in these classes are different, but the truth is they are the same as you and I. These people may have learning or physical disabilities, but they can hold jobs and even build things. Mrs. Stoleson described Pete, Tammy, Milton, Mark and Mervin as a very close knit group. They said the students helped each other out, and were also guided by Ricky Lutz, who was student aid first hour. He acted as a big brother to the others.

While these classes involve a very small percentage of Dysart High School students, they are a welcome and integral part of our school.

SUPPORT STAFF SERVES

Well, it seems that no one ever reads this part of the book, but it's K-O-O-L, READ IT! Just think, if we didn't have the maintenance crew we wouldn't have a good looking campus. Lalo and Herby, two of the K-O-O-L janitors of Dysart High School, cut the grass around campus, and fixed the coolers, and trimmed the plants and trees too. If it wasn't for the maintenance crew we wouldn't have the best football, baseball, track field, and archery range around.

Thanks to the snack bar and cafeteria staff we wouldn't have eaten the nutritious food that we needed in our growing bodies.

Who took care of us when we were sick? The nurse Mr. Keveny did and she did a fine job, putting band-aids on cuts, taking our temperature to assure us we weren't deathly sick, and just keeping us in tip top shape.

Did you know that the bus drivers drove 1,264 miles per day and they transported 1,900 students a good many of them Dysart High students?

Well, aren't you glad you read all of this so that you know what all of these people did for us?

SPIRIT X WORK X MEMBERS = STUDENT COUNCIL

The bell rings; fourth period is finally over. You rush out of the room toward the gym. As you enter you notice the band and the posters hanging on the railing. Confetti and streamers are being passed around. Mateo Alejandro, student body president, strides across the basketball court and the assembly begins. These words describe a normal assembly day. The student council had a large part in planning these assemblies. They also contributed to the successful 1983/84 school year we had.

This group consisted of about twenty-nine students that were high spirited, and determined to make Dysart a better school. Jesse Torres, one of the members, stated, "The student council is a group of leaders supporting the school by bringing more spirit and activities." These leaders were enthusiastic and accomplished many of their objectives. The homecoming dance, dress up week, marriage week, and food drives were just a few activities that brought more spirit and participation.

The main purpose of the student council was to offer suggestions in areas the school could improve upon and at the same time it gave the students experience in the areas of planning, conducting, and coordinating development of leadership.

Mr. Braden was the sponsor of the student council and has acted as

KEY CLUB CREATES SPIRIT

"Hey you over there on the other side, we've got a club that's backed by pride . . ." This cheer was heard throughout the year when the members of Key Club gathered for spirit rallies, and finally the convention at the end of the year.

Some of the activities this year were church and school activities, fund-raisers, spirit rallies, and a lot of parties. "This year we were very close to each other, which made it all the better," said Alice Gonzales. This year the Key Club went trick-or-treating for Make-a-Wish and they earned 500 dollars. One of the school activities was the painting of the campus garbage cans. All were quite . . . uh . . . interesting. There were some punk and surfer cans, as well as a Playboy bunny

Key Club had quite a few sales this year. Everything from candy to donuts, to Boo, Turkey, and Christmas grams were sold.

A few of the big activities this year were the MDA Bowl-a-thon, which was held December third. Key Clubbers got sponsors, some received over a hundred dollars in pledges. They bowled at the Maryvale bowling alley along with the Kiwanis Club.

The students' goal was to attend the National Key Club Convention at the Scottsdale Resort. "We had a fun and fantastic year!" said e Garcia, vice president.

Susan Poland was the sponsor for Key Club. She attended the ities and was a great help and was tremendously appreciated.

POMMIES PROMOTE PEP

The lights grow dim and the students' chatter falls to a curious hush as six girls emerge to take their position on the gym floor. The sound of a storm is heard faintly behind the sound of a squeaking door and the ominous creaking of footsteps. Suddenly the girls erupt into action. Slowly at first, gaining speed, dancing with intensifying precision. The girls are the 1983-84 pom line. For them, the year started July sixth when they went to ASU for NCA pom camp.

With many other schools in attendance such as Mesa High, Peoria, and Thunderbird, the pom line learned one squad routine, two routines individually, along with technique, and they choreographed their mini-routine. A lot was learned in the short three days according to the girls. Though they were inexperienced, except for Yvette Lizotte in her second year, they returned with many high honors. They received not only the coveted spirit stick, but the sweepstakes trophy, the routine trophy, and many ribbons as well. "Camp was fun, but it seemed to last forever," one of the girls said.

Carol Dana is the pom sponsor, dance, and English teacher here. She has been very helpful and supportive throughout the year.

As the last strains of the song "Thriller" fade away, and the girls are breathless at last, an audible gasp of release reverberates through the gym and the whole of Dysart High School begins to clap.

CHEERLEADERS RAISE SCHOOL SPIRIT

You're sitting still out in the football field. Then all of a sudden a group of girls come out screaming, yelling and jumping. Their disassembled confusion molds together a unified action of spirit. These girls are the 1983-84 cheerleaders. The girls worked very hard during practice because not only does it take a lot of spirit and enthusiasm to be a cheerleader, but alot of talent and patience as well.

Like pom, their year started July sixth at the ASU NCA camp. They learned cheers and stunts and performed a cheer they had brought from home. The fruits of their labor were many honors. Though cheerleaders are not awarded trophies for their performance, this does not mean they did not do well. In fact they did a superior job. They brought home the spirit stick, which few of the many squads previously did. The cheer squads worked hard this year to create cheers and stunts to raise the school spirit, and did it well.

V. and freshman squads merged to create a new J.V. team at the beginning of the basketball season.

year we had a boy cheerleader, Gravitty Griffith, the first in three years. He was proud to be a cheerleader and had a great time.

captain and co-captain for varsity cheer were Lucy Reaux and [unclear] Garcia and for J.V. Antonia Camacho and Dawn Brevard. These girls showed terrific enthusiasm and good leadership qualities.

WE'VE GOT THE BEAT

Hey! Who's that? Why, it's Ms. Clark repairing some saxophones — and saving the school hundreds of dollars!

The band and flag-line seemed to be in constant demand as their travels took them to our homecoming parade and the Surprise parade. But they didn't stop there, no way! They went on to play at every football game this year, the assemblies, and even marched over to the District Competition and walked away with a superior rating! This took them to state competition December 3rd, where they received a superior rating. Spring plans included more band competitions and a trip to Disneyland.

THE SPIRIT OF SPORTS

Go big RED, go big RED, go big RED! Sports are a large part of Dysart. There are sports for girls, sports for guys, and sports for those interested in hundreds of miles. Along with these, came the clubs that promoted spirit and created unity.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes was one that was started by Coach Peterson. Many of the football team members and those interested attended the meetings in which many subjects were discussed and they had prayer.

Pep Club was a club that carried spirit wherever they went. All late bloomers, this club gathered spirit and encouraged our team. club was designed to help students obtain spirit during each throughout the year.

On the other hand, the Lettermen were guys who received a letter in exchange for services offered to them. These are the guys we all saw walking around in letterman jackets or sweaters, faded Levi's, and boat shoes. They were a few of the (Macho) guys at Dysart.

So had other students who enjoyed miles — hundreds of them. These students were members of the 100 Mile Club and they ran a lot. Well, BIG RED, keep going!

COOKING UP CLUBS

What's the recipe for a successful club? Supportive people, good ideas, and lots of enthusiasm are a few ingredients.

Quill and Scroll is an International Honorary Society for high school journalists. Members must rank in the upper third of their class in general scholastic standing, must have done superior work in some phase of journalism or school publications work, and must be recommended by the advisor.

This years officers were Angie Garcia, President; Robert Leyvas,

V.P.; Connie Hamill, Treasurer; and Beth Whitmeyer, secretary. Mrs. Duff, club sponsor, stated, "It is an honor to be asked to join Quill and Scroll. I was thrilled to be a member when I was in high school. It is something to which each Journalism or yearbook student should aspire." A banquet was held in May to induct new members.

DEADLINE DELIRIUM

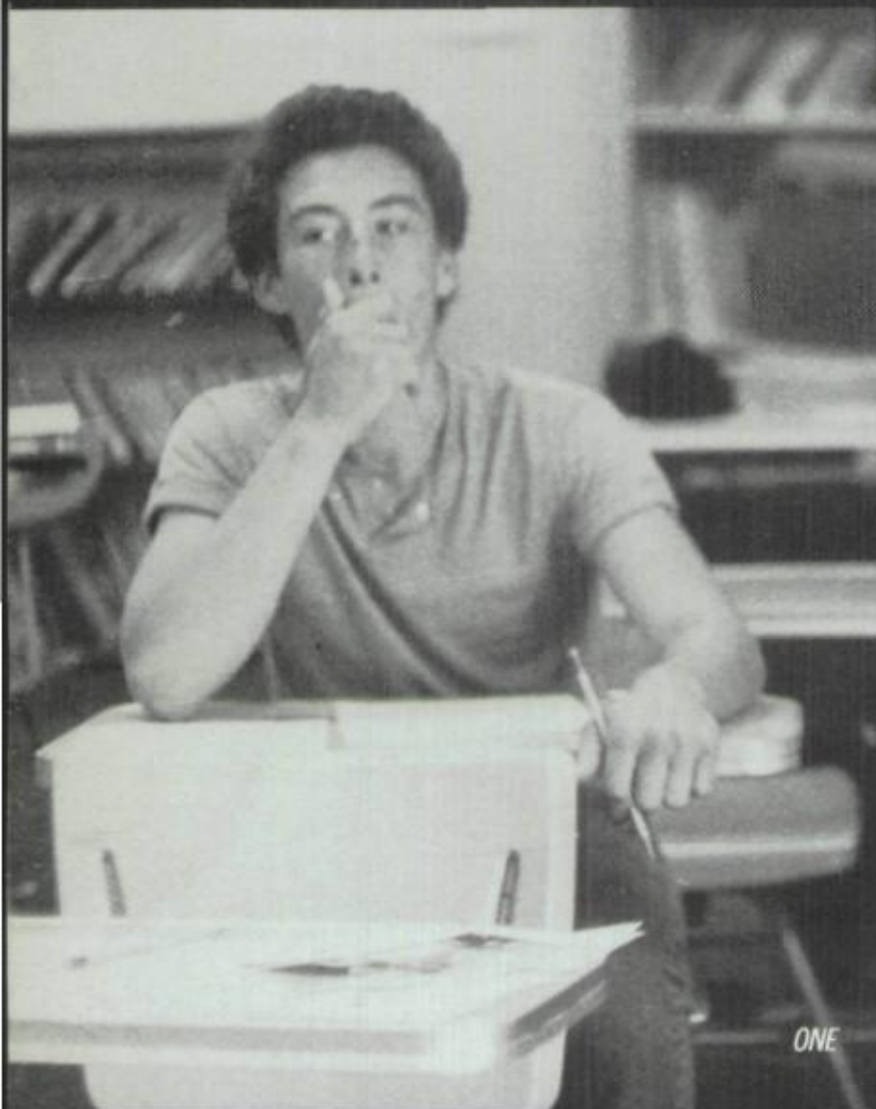

Despite the throwing of books, papers, pencils, pictures, fists, and bodies, the El Demonio staff managed to get out a book you could thoroughly check out. But flying objects weren't the problem—deadlines were.

It seemed like each time a deadline ended, the next one came. Nevertheless, with the talent of the staff, the book was produced. Ms. Della-Calce, advisor, commented, "The dreaded deadlines just about did this staff in several times, but somehow they managed to survive . . . barely!" She also stated, "I do warn the staff of the terrors involved with deadlines . . . but words cannot describe . . . it has to be experienced to be believed."

There was a new addition to the staff, the Commodore computer room 151. They made typing stories and captions much easier. They were able to type the stories in the computer, save them on a disk, readouts of them, make corrections, and print them out in necessary forms.

Connie Hamill, copy-editor, remarked, "The computers really helped to get the stories done faster, instead of typing them three times."

As the 1983-84 yearbook came to a close, we looked back and said "Thank goodness it's over!"

MIND-VS-COMPUTER

You are on a packed bus with about fifty students. Every student is anxious. The driver starts the bus and heads out. You are now on the road to the world of your future. The Medical Careers Club took many of these trips. They went to U of A, ASU, and other medical facilities. Meanwhile, the members of the Computer Club huddled close by their brain machines.

The Medical Careers Club this year was very successful. Darlene Guy, the president, stated, "We had a slow start because of things standing in our way, but we made it." They had a lot of participation and activities. Each member was active and supported their club.

The purpose of the Medical Careers Club was to help make students aware of the different professions in the field of medicine. They organized field trips and had several guest speakers. This club used the money they raised for scholarships for the seniors who wanted to pursue a medical occupation.

This year the main purpose of the Computer Club was to purchase at least three computers. Their plan was to use all the money from the sale to buy them. The other purpose was to promote the use of computers in the high school. Everyday at lunch many of bers worked and played on these computers. They were very D'Attore, the club sponsor, wanted much more than participation.

tated, "I would have liked more equipment, people, and usage — next year an aggressive, hard-working president." He wanted the

CLUBS PROMOTE PRIDE

The Mecha Club originated in the early 70's. It's title means "Chicano Student Movement of the Southwest". The club again this year entered the Homecoming Float Contest. The club sold Christmas ornaments, and engaged in friendly competitions with other clubs. Mr. Padilla was the sponsor.

The Black Heritage club was something new for Dysart this year. The club was designed for members to study the black heritages. Gladys Sanders, the president, stated, "This year we have come alive. We decided it was time to get a Black Heritage Club. It was a club open to all. We are a young club but we are striving to be well-known. Our concern was to get the Black students involved in their community see how far our race has come."

Have you ever wanted to grow lettuce? Raise a pig? Well the FFA members have. FFA is vocational agricultural instruction that stands for Future Farmers of America. To be an FFA member you must have been enrolled in an agricultural class. The FFA members have not only learned about helping others but about leadership by receiving d responsibilities with activities, conferences, livestock, and crops. Schimpp was the new sponsor.

Another club was Christian Life Fellowship. They continually raised money through many kinds of sales. They used the money to service a fellow man. At Christmas time they bought groceries for a needy person. Almost all of their finances went to giving to the needy. Mrs. Simmons was the sponsor.

The four clubs were instrumental in raising the consciousness of the student body and gaining pride in our accomplishments and culture.

SPOTLIGHT ON DANCE CHORUS JAMS

You enter a spacious room and spot a huge mirror engulfing one wall. Suddenly the silence is shattered by a herd of girls crowding out of a doorway on the other side of the room. The girls are quieted, and a petite woman wearing the same strange apparel calls out their names. When this is done she says, "Everyone onto the floor." Music fills the air and the girls begin to dance. "Point your toes, stand up straight, spot to the mirror, SMILE!"-words Dysart Dancers must have heard jillions of times this year. These talented girls leaped into action performing in the fall when the Advanced and the Intermediate classes performed at the Civic Plaza.

To get into dance the girls tried out at the end of the year. They were taught a routine and were judged on their performance and chosen based on potential, ability, skill, and personality. Dance is a sectioned into three groups; Advanced, Intermediate, and Beginner. Throughout the year they had many sales to earn money for costumes for the Spring Dance Show, (which climaxed what had been work all year).

The three groups performed for the general public, Luke and Sullivan Elementary Schools, and the Junior High. The performances lasted three days and two nights.

You leave the dance floor with the pulsating sounds of music and a 7-8" ringing in your ears. You pinch yourself to prove that it was just a wildly exciting dream and move through the double doors.

of ecstasy as a slight breeze brings you back to reality, pushing n to the Chorus room where you knock over Mr. Hack.

ear the Chorus was really excellent. They performed at the open and did a very fine job. This year the choir got new robes and sers. The Choir applied to Disneyland to sing in the Spring. Other the choir performed were at different clubs and Christmas

HOT OFF THE PRESS

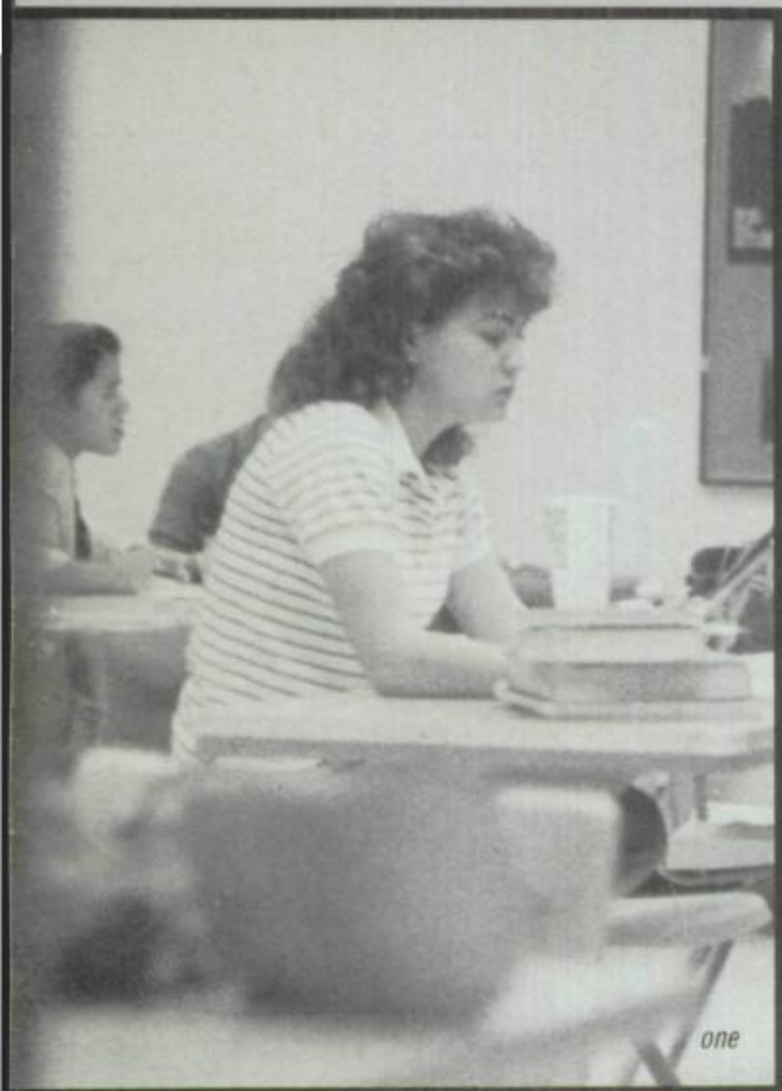

Behind the pages of the newspaper we had the staff. No one knew how hard the deadlines were because the pulling out of hair and the screaming of lungs never showed up on the paper, only the expert writing and picture taking skills. Mrs. Duff, the newspaper adviser, was known to yell such things as, "Lets get to work, I want to see some stories in today." and "Am I ever going to get everyone's attention at the same time?"

Mrs. Duff stated that she was very proud of the way the staff got the newspaper out on time when she was absent for 1 week in November. Norma Salas, Co-Editor, commented that they shared the work-load and worked together. One major problem this year was the plu. The photo lab was closed down due to leakage from the sink, but much compromising the deadlines were met successfully.

Mrs. Duff was also the Photo Club sponsor. This years officers Robert Ramirez, President; Norma Salas, Vice President; Dorine, Treasurer; and Alice Gonzales, Secretary. "Photo Club was full work, but we all pitched in and got the job done," said Rob

We should all thank the terrific newspaper staff and photo c, bringing us a well informed year!!

ON TO HOLLYWOOD

As the curtains part on the scene before us, we recognize two crazy people strangling each other. Could they be maniacs? Or are they just members of the drama club playing their parts in a production?

Though the students may have been practicing to become actors and actresses, Mr. Butler felt the Drama and Speech Clubs were mainly to teach people to feel good about themselves, social interactions, and learning to speak in public.

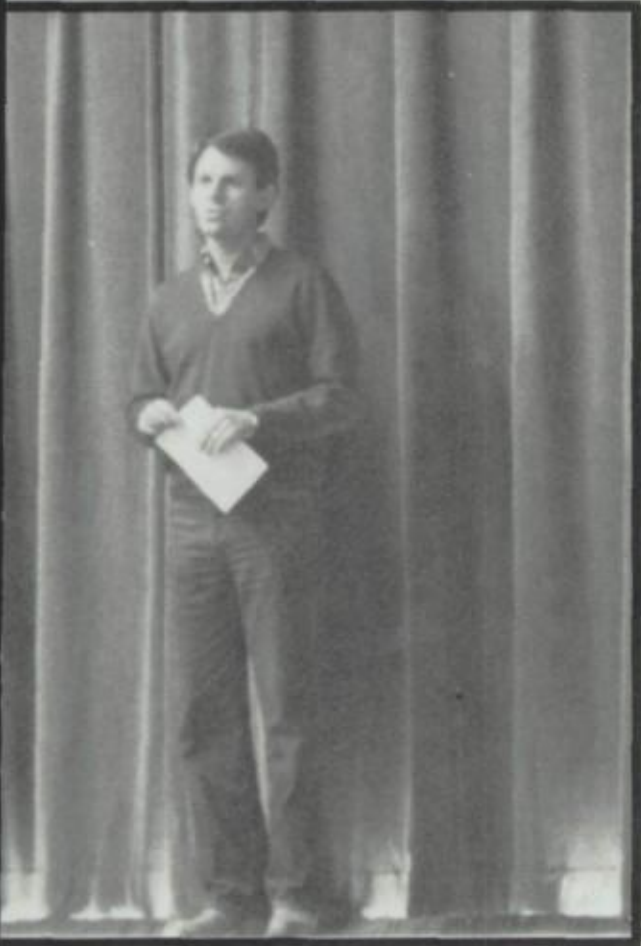

The Drama Club started their travels this year to ASU for a S Thespians Conference that lasted two days, and over 400 kids attended. Other plans included attending another Thespian Festival in February, and performing a three act comedy in the spring entitled "Evening with Speech and Drama." This past November they performed "The Jury" (12 Angry Men) and were also planning a full length comedy.

Speech competitions held at the beginning of the year, we had Tom, Darlene Guy, and James Duncan walk away with awards. This for the local competition and they had an opportunity to go to state in January. Speech Club offered ways to express yourself, learn to speak publicly, and compete with others.

Drama and Speech had tremendous success — we can't wait to see what's cookin' next year!

one) Drama Members gang up on an irate Number 8 in The Jury, their fall production. two) Mr. Butler demonstrates the correct way to pucker. three) Dysart Presents: The Drama Club for 1983-84. Top) Matt Helmick, Charles Jarvis, Shawnee Tignor, Randy Freberg, Tom Nadel, Jeff Davey, and Denise Montague. Middle) Lisa Sandoval, Amanda Teal, Anthony Reese, Yvette Lizotte, Lorie Hannenberg, Shawna Bowman, Greg Jarvis. Bottom) Gina DeLahaute, Mr. Butler, Christine Walker, Louis Walker. four) And here's another look at the murder scene . . . Do you know "who done it?" five) Anthony and Yvette smile pretty while Randy seeks attention. six) "Don't you see him? Over there, on the right!" comments Lorie to Tom (who takes a break from speeches for a second) and Jeff. seven) Is this a rap session or a plain ol' "Screaming to be heard" meeting?

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

The students and faculty work part-time at Dysart High under the close supervision of Dr. Leo Fiebeiger.

Being at Dysart for eight hours and more for club members, athletes, and sponsors, makes the story of their lives come to life in this book.

Many of the events you have viewed were just a part of the lives of the authors. Football games, campus activities, drama presentations, and the grief over Dr. Fiebeiger's speeding ticket played a big role in the everyday life at Dysart.

As the year ends, the Class of "84" checks out of Dysart to make way for those struggling on.
